Gravity falls theme song lyrics

Picture: CBS Come and Knock on ... the door of this quiz! The 1970's and 1970's were the first of its Hippies and flower babies were out. Afros and bell-bottoms were at the top of fashion and disco was rocking the radio broadcast. While it was all happening, the TV shows of the 1970s were guided by their catchy themed songs. From Three's Company to the Jeffersons, you can finish the lyrics to these 1970s TV songs. While the 1980s and 1990s would make TV sitcoms and branch them out into the world of friends, the 1970s were very family-oriented. Sitcoms such as All in the Family, The Jeffersons and The Brady Bunch were popular with viewers. There were happy days and good times. The shows of the decade also followed roommates at Three's Company and collaborators at M*A*S*H. They had one-woman acts like The Mary Tyler Moore Show and Maude.The 1970s differed when it came to their TV shows, and when you might remember the characters and story lines, how well do you remember the theme song? Do you remember where the Jeffersons are going to go? The Brady Bunch had a story about a beautiful lady who was what? If you remember these lyrics, you are ready for this quiz! Author© 2021 Holdings, LLC. System1 Company Image: izusek/E+/Getty Images Many think the 1980s was the dawn of the digital era. In almost all aspects of life, new technologies appear. From heart transplants and compact synthesizers to personal computers and DNA mapping, no one could deny that the 1980's and 1980's were not the end of the world. Fashion was no exception, with bright neon colors covering the landscape. And with loud fashion came even louder music. The music was fun, catchy and above all dance. Instead of performing live, many of the hits had music videos, each with a larger production budget than the previous one. To show the world the true definition of music video, Michael Jackson released Thriller in 1983, the third video from his album of the same name. Director John Landis and special effects guru Rick Baker (director and Oscar-winning makeup artist for American Werewolf in London) helped bring Michael Jackson's horror-themed video to life. And with horror icon Vincent Price providing voice-overs and a 45-minute documentary following him, Thriller has become a masterpiece. It wasn't just men spending big money on videos. Madonna had a slew of tuxedo-clad men in her Material Girl video. She then followed that up with a lion and trips to Venice and New York for her Like a Virgin video. She even held a competition that decades ago for bragging rights (and $25,000) to create a concept for her True Blue video. So in the name of big hair and bigger personalities, what would be the theme of your life? One way to find out is to take this quiz! Take a trip down memory lane that will make you feel nostalgic AF Image: ABC Are you a fan of 1960s TV shows? Can you sing words on every song theme for these shows? If you think you can keep your own, we have prepared a quiz for you based on the theme song of the 1960s. We invite you to guess them all. The 1960's and 1960's were the first Here's an example: They're creepy and they're gooly, mysterious and creepy, they're completely ooky, the Addams family. Their house is a museum, when people come to see it, they are really a cry, the Addams family. Now she confesses, you sang the lyrics, didn't you? That's because these themed songs made an impression. Even some of the themed songs that threw away their words in favor of wordless intro are recognizable. When we mentioned I Dream of Jeannie, you may be able to hum the theme song, but what were the words? In fact, I Dream of Jeannie had words, although the producers eventually opted for a musical intro.
